If you think a person is missing, the following are actions that you can take.

Immediately contact your local law enforcement agency to report the person missing. If the person went missing somewhere else, you may contact the law enforcement agency in that area. When you contact police, tell them that you need to file a missing persons' report.

When you file a missing person's report the police will ask you a number of questions. It would be helpful if you had the following information. Do not worry; you need not delay contacting the police if you do not have all of the information below.

a) Basic information about the Missing Person
Full name:
Date of birth:
Birthplace:
Nicknames (if any):
Current and previous addresses.
Who else lived there?
Current and former employers.
b) Physical description of the Missing Person
Height
Weight
Age
Build
Hair Color/Length of Hair
Eye color?
Any Markings (tattoos, birthmarks, scars, etc)

Beard/Mustache/Sideburns: Provide the most recent photo of the missing person c) Habits and Personality of Missing Person Does the person smoke? If yes, what brand of cigarettes? Does the person drink alcohol? If yes, what type? Does the person use recreational drugs? Does the person chew gum? What type of recreation or activities does the person engage in including hobbies? Are there novel habits that the person has? For instance, does the person have a place where they always go for coffee? Does the person have particular banking habits? What type of personality does the person have? Is the person outgoing or quiet? Is the person friendly or depressed?

Style and color of jacket or outerwear:
If applicable, type of headwear:
Type of glasses:
Type of gloves:
Type of footwear :
e) Trip Plans of the Missing Person the day they went missing
What were the missing person's plans and/or activities on the day they went missing?
Where was he/she going?
Why was he/she going there?
Was the person traveling by car? If so, provide the make and model number, license plate number and registration.
Does the person have access to any other vehicles or mode of travel?

f) Information about the last time the Missing Person was seen

The time and location of where he/she was last seen:

The name of the person who last saw the missing person:

The name of the person who last talked at length with the missing person:

The direction the missing person was traveling the last time seen:

The attitude of the missing person the last time seen:

Was the missing person concerned about anything before he/she went missing?

g) Overall health and condition of the missing person

Physical condition:

Any known medical problems:

Is the person suffering from Alzheimer's disease/dementia/memory loss? If so, are they registered on Safely Home? If they are registered on Safely Home, what is their registration number? Are they wearing a Safely Home identification bracelet or carrying an identification card?

Any handicaps or disabilities:

Any medications that the person is taking:

Any addictions that the person has:

Provide the name of the missing person's family physician and their health card number, if possible:

Provide the name of the missing person's main dentist, if possible:

When the missing person's report has been filed, ask the police for the missing person's file number. As well, ask for contact information for the investigator in charge of the file.

List all of the people who the missing person may try to contact. Try to include addresses and telephone numbers (use a separate sheet if necessary):

Secure the personal belongings and living space of the missing person until the police provide further direction. Below is a list of items of importance.

- Items such as a hairbrush, a toothbrush, or undergarments. Investigators may need to undertake DNA analysis.
- Any electronic equipment such as a cell phone or computer. What is the make of phone and the cell phone provider. As well, do you know if they were active on a chat line or other social on-line network such as MSN facebook?
- Any personal documents such as banking statements and credit card statements as well as all bank card information.

Any written material such as a journal

To make things more manageable, start a log or journal. Include all information about the missing person's case in the journal.

The Police will likely request that there be one family contact with the police. This simplifies contact between the Police and the family. Police officers will only have to update one person about the investigation. In addition, they will know who to contact when information is needed from the family. Talk with your family and close friends about who will be the family contact. The members of your family may not want to take on this role. If so, you may decide that a close friend should be the contact person.

Actions your family can undertake

- Conduct a telephone search. Phone friends and family that may have some idea of where the missing person is. Start with those closest to the missing person and write all of the information down in your journal.
- If you find out any additional information from telephone inquiries pass it on to police
- Put up flyers with a photograph of the missing person around your community. If the missing person is a child talk to Child Find Saskatchewan about the services they provide for distributing pictures and posters.
- Tell all necessary people about the disappearance of the missing person.
   This may include the missing person's employer, their bank, and their doctor.
   If the missing person is a child you will need to contact the school they are attending.
- If necessary, arrange for the payment of the missing person's mortgage, rent or bills. You may require legal advice on how to proceed.

Navigating the Missing Persons Investigation

The information provided on this fact sheet is to give families of missing persons an idea of what to expect during the investigation process. This list is meant to give a general outline of various tasks and actions investigators will take during the process and should not be considered inclusive of all tasks that occur during the investigative process.

- Adult missing person investigations are more complicated as there are privacy issues in place that do not exist with missing children investigations. Gathering information can take more time in adult missing person cases due to these privacy issues.
- In the beginning of an investigation, officers need to assess the level of risk the missing person may be facing by looking at key areas such as: routine, lifestyle, travel, what is out of character and what is common.
- The immediate family will be questioned extensively. This is intended to clarify information and gather facts. Expect questions to be personal and at times they may be uncomfortable to answer. It is important to be as factual and truthful as possible as doing otherwise could hinder the investigation.
- The questions asked are meant to move the investigation forward by eliminating information that is not relevant to the disappearance.
- Be prepared for investigators to request articles that may hold the missing person's DNA.

  This is not meant to be a sign that the missing is no longer safe. It is only a precautionary measure as DNA takes a long time to process.
- Investigators appreciate having one primary contact person for the family. This allows information to flow smoothly and prevents misinformation being relayed to other family members.
- The primary investigator will provide contact information (phone, email for example) to the primary family contact and let the family know when they will be able to provide updates on the investigation.
- To protect the integrity of the investigation very little information will be shared at the beginning. As time passes and information is sorted through investigators will be able to share more.
- Items that get seized will remain as such until the investigation proves the item holds no evidentiary value.
- Investigators will ensure all searches for the missing person are conducted by professional search teams. This is to protect anything of evidentiary value.

- Families are encouraged to speak to investigators about the benefits of being onsite during a search. Some families may find that it is easier to wait at their home supported by family and friends than at the search area.
- Media releases have benefits and drawbacks. They can make the public aware that someone is missing and what the investigators are doing (such as aerial searches). They can also lead to false information being reported that waste valuable resources and time. They can also expose the family to scam artists looking to benefit off the trauma the family is experiencing.
- Family is notified of an upcoming media release whenever possible prior to the media being notified. If you have questions or concerns about the information that will be shared, discuss it with the investigators.
- Do not ever hesitate to ask questions. The investigators understand that questions will come up at all stages and encourage the primary contact to address them.
- Share any new information you receive with the investigators, no matter how unlikely, ridiculous or crazy it sounds. Let the investigators determine what information is valuable to the case.
- If an investigation reaches a point where there are no further avenues to explore and no new information is coming in, it may be transferred to the cold case investigator. This does not mean the case is closed. This means that the cold case investigator is now the primary contact for the family.
- The cold case investigator will investigate any and all new information as time and resources allow. It is important for the family to realize that there are only a handful of cold case investigators in Saskatchewan and they handle all cold cases, not just cold missing persons cases.
- The cold case investigators maintain close contact with missing persons coordinators and major case investigators. They also meet provincially twice a year to discuss cases.
- Cold cases are never closed or concluded. They are considered inactive until more information becomes available and new leads are generated.
- Cold cases investigators encourage families to dictate frequency of contact. Some families want regular updates where other families only want to be contacted if something major happens with the case.
- Keep investigators updated on primary contact information even if the investigation is now a cold case. Having a loved one go missing is very traumatic and it can be physically and emotionally exhausting. At any point that the primary family contact feels they can not continue in this role, the family can designate a new contact person.

Media Relations: A Toolkit for Families

Introduction

Speaking to the media can be hard. It is not always clear what facts to share and how and when to share them. This media kit is intended to help you with this. In addition, your family should always discuss media issues with the police. They know your case and have dealt with the media many times before.

This media kit has the following sections:

- a) Information the media may ask for;
- b) Deciding who should be the family spokesperson;
- c) Putting on a news conference;
- d) Creating a media advisory;
- e) Holding a media scrum;
- f) One-on-one interviews;
- g) Creating a statement to the media;
- h) Contacting the media in long term missing persons cases; and,
- i) Raising public awareness without using the media.

A) Information the media may ask for:

- What the person looks like (physical appearance, tattoos, birth marks, height and what the person was wearing when they went missing, etc)
- Where the person was last seen
- A recent photo of the missing person (photos that clearly show the person's face are needed)
- The phone number of the local police or RCMP and the name of the investigator who is handling your case.

B) Deciding who should be the Family Spokesperson

What is a family spokesperson?

A family spokesperson is the person who will be the family contact with the media. Any member of your family or a close friend can take on this role. Family members may not want to deal with the media. If this is the case, a friend of the family may want to be the family contact.

The police may also be able to provide someone to inform the media. Your family may want to have two people in mind for this role. If one person is unavailable, the other person can fill in.

Here are a few pointers: .

- The person should feel confident speaking to the media;
- The person should be able to keep messages to the media clear and brief;

- The person should know about the missing person's case so he/she does not have to stop and check basic facts;
- The person should be able to remain calm when dealing with reporters who may ask hard questions.

C) The News Conference

If you hold a news conference you can talk to all media outlets at once. This decreases the number of times you will need to talk with the media. If you can, get a person with media experience to help put on the news conference.

Someone with experience will have media contacts and understand the news cycle. They will also look after details that may otherwise be forgotten. You can talk to the investigator in charge of your case. Ask the investigator to put you in contact with a media spokesperson.

Try to hold the news conference away from your home. You may want to keep your house free to continue efforts to locate your loved one. Choose a location, such as your local police station, that has a room set up for news conferences. Other options may be a local church hall or a business that has a board room.

D) Creating a Media Advisory

A Media Advisory tells the media about a future news conference. It provides the time, date, and location of the news conference. It also describes when your loved one went missing. A contact number is included so questions can be answered about the news conference.

Below is an example of a Media Advisory. You can use it to help make your own. Send the Advisory to all media outlets the day before the news conference either by fax or email. If fax or email is not an option deliver the media advisory to each outlet.

Media Advisory

June 14, 2006- The Family of Jane Doe will talk to the media about her disappearance. She has been missing since June 13, 2006 from her home in Big City. The RCMP will be in attendance.

Time: 10:00 am Date: June 15, 2006

Location: United Church Hall 234 Local Church Way Big City, Province

Example

E) Media Scrums

A scrum is like a news conference but it is not formally organized. A group of reporters will interview a person at the same time. You may have noticed on TV shows like CSI Miami and Law and Order that after a court ruling the defendant is asked many questions. That is a media scrum. Scrums can be stressful but they provide families with a way to get important facts to the public.

If possible, have someone with experience in communications set up the scrum. This person will tell the media what questions will be answered and how long the scrum will last.

The family spokesperson should state his/her name and relationship to the missing person. Family members often prepare a statement (see statement section of this toolkit). The information in the statement should be discussed with police. The spokesperson should read the statement and give reporters the chance to ask a few questions. Refer questions about the case to the lead investigator. Do not comment on gossip or rumors. Thank reporters for coming and be firm when you tell them that the scrum is over. If you like, you can ask someone to moderate the news conference and bring it to a conclusion.

F) Giving One on One Interviews

One on one interviews are optional. You don't have to agree to an interview if you don't want to. If your family has an interview, the family spokesperson should be well prepared. Your family should decide on a few key points for discussion during the interview. The spokesperson should try to stick to these points. If you are worried about the interview remember that you are in control. The spokesperson can stop the interview at any time. Always discuss with the police what facts should be released to the media during the interview.

G) Creating a Statement to the Media

A statement to the Media is an easy way to involve the media in your case. It contains basic facts about your loved one. It should provide enough information to allow a reporter to create a story for broadcast or print. Below is an example that you and your family can follow. The format could be used for a missing man, woman, or child:

Example:

Statement to Media by the Family of Jane Doe

June 14, 2006- The family of Jane Doe would like to issue the following statement regarding Jane Doe.

On June 13th, 2006, Jane Doe was reported to the police as missing. Repeated attempts to contact her by family members failed. Jane Doe is 35 yrs old, has a husband and two small children. At this time, we are working with police to locate Jane.

We are very worried about Jane. It is not like her to not contact her family or to miss work without calling in to report her absence. Jane does not have a history of any illnesses. We can not think of why Jane would walk away from her family or disappear in the manner which she has.

We are asking the public to please look at the pictures of Jane included. As well, Jane's picture can be seen on missing persons' posters which have been placed (or posted) in local public areas. If you have seen Jane or know anything which could help us find her, please contact the local police at XXX.XXX.XXXX or call Crime Stoppers at XXX.XXX.XXXX.

A quick message to Jane: We love you and wish that you would come home. Your children and husband miss you and we would like you to contact us ASAP. We are very worried about you. We love you.

H) When a loved one has been missing for a long time

Sometimes a missing loved one will remain missing for a long time. If this is true in your case, you may want to contact the media to bring attention back to your case. You can do this in any of the ways outlined above. As well, you may want to hold a vigil or awareness walk. If you do, invite the media to the event.

I) Creating Public Awareness without using the Media

There is no guarantee that the media will cover your case. Here are a number of ways to raise public awareness about your missing loved one without using the media:

- Create and put up posters around your neighborhood. The Saskatchewan Association of Chiefs of Police has many samples of posters of missing persons that you can follow (http://www.sacp.ca/missing/details.php?id=13).
- Create a page on Facebook or some other social networking site. These sites provide access to many people who may not see a poster.
- Hold a vigil or an awareness walk.

Conclusion

Contact with the media is important. The media are able to bring attention to your case. The increased attention may produce leads from the public. This may help locate your missing loved one.

Try to remember that you control the relationship with the media. You and your family decide when, where, and in what format you are going to interact with the media. In addition, you and your family, along with police input, decide what facts will be released to the public.

This toolkit is a basic source of advice for you and your family. If you have any questions about the media talk to the police agency in charge of your case. They can direct you to someone who can help you with media related questions.

Guide to Working with Social Media

Instructions and information to support you in using Social Media in your search for your loved one. Includes Facebook, Bebo, Twitter, and Hotmail (for those who do not have a current email).

Facebook Instructions:

Note: In order to set-up a Facebook account you need a current email – if you do not have one, please go to the Hotmail instructions in this guide first to get an email account. All of your sign-up information will be sent to the email you provide to Facebook.

We recommend that you set up a profile for yourself first in your own name then start a "group" for your loved one. Groups are great – you can message people, and share information easily, however it's important that you make your group an "open" group with limited privacy so that as many people can see this as possible.

IMPORTANT – you will not be able to be "friends" with your missing loved one as they need to accept your request by signing in. You will need to monitor their personal "Profile" through someone who is already friends with them (like their close friend/partner).

Getting Started

- Type in www.facebook.com and you will see blanks in which to type your name, email and information. Click on "sign up" (note: type your name exactly as you want it to appear).
- Facebook then redirects you to a security page. Enter the security check and click "sign up".
- STEP 1: You are directed to your `Getting Started` page where you have the option to search for friends, you have the option to skip this step by clicking "skip", found on the bottom left of the page.
- STEP 2: Facebook then directs you to set up your `Profile Information` where it asks about the schools you attended/work details etc. Again you have the option of skipping this at the bottom left of the page.
- STEP 3: you are prompted to upload or take a picture for your profile that can be seen on your profile to friends and family, again the option to skip is on the left. We recommend you load a picture of yourself, or your loved one.
- Next, you will enter the "Welcome" page where you will be guided through all of the profile options. On this page you are able to search friends by name or email.
- An important option on this page is your personal security options found at the top right of the page – you can set your personal security to be high, and still leave security open if you start a group for your loved one. Remember that the tighter the security on your profile, the fewer people can see it.
- On the left side of the page you have the options to create events, send messages, create groups, etc. This is where you would create a group for your loved one.
- When using this site, please be mindful that if you add people you don't know as friends, your profile runs the risk of being hacked. You can report spam and hackers on your page in order to share the missing person's information, this may be a risk you choose to take. Ask friends and family for more tips on security.
- The more family and friends you add as friends or invite to the group, the bigger the network information can travel in hours across the country. Send messages to your friends and family asking them to share information widely.

Guide to Working with Social Media

Bebo Instructions:

- Go to www.bebo.com
- Click on the "Join Bebo for Free" link that is highlighted in blue on your left
- This brings you to a sign up for free page where you need to enter your full name and email address along with some personal information (see Hotmail instructions below if you don't have an email).
- It now brings you to a "find friends from Hotmail" option either select, or there is an option to skip this on the right of the "find friends" button
- From here it takes you to a page on which you are able to edit your basic information, descriptive phrase, user names, contact details, education details, etc.
- This page also gives you the option to change your privacy settings ensure you select privacy levels that allow you to share information, however protects your own personal information.
- You can navigate through Bebo by using the "navigation bar" at the top of the web page. This will provide you with options for checking your "home page", your profile, finding and viewing friends, photos etc.

Hotmail Instructions:

- Type in www.hotmail.com and look to your bottom left to sign up for an account.
- You will be redirected to a page where you need to enter all your information and choose a name for your account.
- Make sure to pick a name that will be easy to remember, and write it down to avoid having to search or make up a new account. Often using a version of your first and last name is ideal if you are able to.
- When choosing your password try to choose wisely to ensure no-one can easily access your account. Choose something that is easy for you to remember but difficult for others to figure out.
- When you are asked for an alternate email address, and if you do not have one you will have the option of answering a security question.
- After all this information is entered, you will then be forwarded to your new Hotmail account with further instructions on managing it.

Tip: Add all your email contacts immediately to your "address book" so they are easy to access for sending email updates.

Twitter Instructions:

Note: In order to set-up a Twitter account you need a current email – if you do not have one, please go to the Hotmail instructions in this guide first to get an email account. All of your sign-up information will be sent to the email you provide to Twitter.

Twitter enables you to communicate quickly – kind of like sending a text to the world. You update your Twitter right from your cell phone, so you can do anywhere/anytime. The challenge with "tweets" is that you only have 140 characters to share what you want to say, and if no-one is following your page, your message doesn't get heard, so you need to spend some time inviting people to follow you.

Guide to Working with Social Media

- Twitter is a great way to communicate brief "sound-bites" however, it will take some time to get up and running and you need to be able to spend some time getting it active. For Advanced Users: one advantage to a Facebook "page" rather than a group, is that you have the option to have all page status updates go immediately to Twitter. See Facebook instructions for more details.
- Go to www.twitter.com to access the site.
- On the home page you will be prompted to enter your name, email and a password to sign up.
- You will then be directed you to a confirmation page, double check all your information before clicking `creating my account`
- This brings you to another security check, enter the information asked and click create my account.
- STEP 1: Select the topics you are interested in. Find a few people you want to hear from, then follow them as well as their messages
- STEP 2: Search the services you use to discover which of your friends are already using Twitter. Follow any of the friends you find to add their Tweets to your timeline.
- You are then directed to your home page, where you have the option of formatting your profile.

Self Care - It's vital that you remember to take care of yourself

Stress symptoms are normal under these circumstances. How you are feeling is normal and natural and may be experienced differently by each family member. These are some possible symptoms* that you, or others, may be feeling. Be mindful of:

*This is not a complete list; you may be experiencing other symptoms not included here. Be sure to talk to your doctor if symptoms continue more than a week. Refer to the Medicine Bear Resource Guide for different resources available to support you, your family and friends.

Helpful tips...

Plan regular family meetings to check in with everyone and see how each of you is doing. This will also provide an opportunity to share information and plan together, which will reduce miscommunication.

- Know that you are not alone and that there are always people that want to help you search, people to support you, and people to talk to. Reach out people do care!
- Talk with someone. Whether it is an Elder, therapist, family member or a friend, you need to be able to speak freely with someone who will listen openly to your feelings. Remember that you can also attend or request a ceremony.
- Make a commitment to do at least one thing for yourself and your well-being each day. This will help you stay balanced and reduce stress so you can continue to manage the situation. Try to
- Go for a 10-15 minute walk
- Call a friend to go out for coffee
- Write in a journal
- Connect with nature
- Make time for exercise
- Light a candle and have 5 minutes of quiet time
- Take an afternoon nap
- Talk to an Elder or other spiritual advisor
- Your body needs fuel and sleep to be able to stay healthy. Even though it may be hard, it is vital that you eat a balanced diet with regular meals and get at least 8 hours of sleep a night.
- Find a place with no distractions that you can go to and feel at peace. Even a few minutes will help.
- You may find that the strong emotions you are feeling help drive you in the search for your loved one. Remember that you need to be able to release these emotions in a positive way as they build up allow yourself time to blow off steam in a safe and healthy way.
- Sometimes it may feel like you should have been there or done something differently in order to prevent this from happening. Be gentle with yourself and others, and know that blaming yourself or others isn't fair to you, or helpful for your loved one.
- Some people find relief in writing, whether it be a letter, scribbles of thoughts, or just writing everything you're feeling, thinking and what is going on around you.

Prevention and Safety Tips for Families

- Talk with your children regularly about how to be safe, and about dangerous situations that may potentially occur for children and young adults.
- Make a plan for, and/or 'role-play', unsafe scenarios and teach children/youth how to handle these situations. Make them aware of resources available to them to stay safe (like neighbours, safe places in the community, friends and family etc.).
- Know the friends and contacts your child/friend has. Try to listen and remember when they're talking about where they're hanging out, and with whom.
- Teach them about how to stay safe from internet predators (including on Facebook and other social media) by never meeting strangers in person, never releasing personal details like age or address during online chat, and by using secure privacy settings for photographs online.
- Take lots of regular photographs of your family and friends. Having current photos is a great way to remember special moments, but it is also important so that you have updated photographs of your loved ones.
- Make sure your child memorizes phone numbers and/or addresses in case of an emergency. If they have a cell phone, make sure these emergency numbers are programmed into the phone.
- Enrolling your child in fun and engaging activities with other friends and loved ones not only boost self esteem but also supports a sense of belonging and supports making connections to their community. There are many low-cost and free activities available through local organizations.
- Encourage your loved one to always travel in a group, rather than walking alone. Whether it's 2 or 20 people, travelling with others usually makes it less likely something will happen.
- Make sure that your loved one never accepts rides from anyone except trusted family or friends. Even if they do know the person they should call and check with you before getting into any vehicle. Have a "code word" that they have to say before they get in a car so you know they're safe and not coerced.
- Let your loved one know that you will ALWAYS help them/pick them up if they are in a tough situation even if it's late or they think you'll be upset.
- Let your loved one know that if they were ever to go missing that you would not stop looking for them (just in case someone were to try telling them differently).

- Teach your loved ones that if something or someone does not seem quite right, that they should trust their gut feelings and instincts and get out of that situation.
- Pay closer attention than you normally do if your child's behaviour seems to be changing significantly, and/or you notice a sudden change in their friends.
- Parents who have reason to be concerned with their child's safety may choose to save a toothbrush or hairbrush in a sealed Ziploc bag.
