Ms. Khoury completed the amendments by listening to the source audio recording of the proceeding.
MS. SHELBY THOMAS: Okay. Everything's on. If everyone just wants to state their names to let everyone know who's in the room and then we can go from there. And I'll start with saying it's November 1st. And what's the time?

UNIDENTIFIABLE SPEAKER: 5:27.

MS. SHELBY THOMAS: 5:27. And it's Shelby Thomas with the National Inquiry.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: This is Rebecca Moore.

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: Michèle Audette. (Commissaire).

MS. AUDREY SIEGL: Audrey Siegl.

MS. AMELIA REIMER: Amelia Reimer.

MS. BERNIE WILLIAMS: And Bernie Williams.

MS. SHELBY THOMAS: Okay. You can begin.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: Okay.

MS. SHELBY THOMAS: Thank you.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: So the reason or my driving point to have this meeting and -- is to include treaty perspective within this Inquiry of Murdered and Missing Indigenous Women and to talk about the current systematic oppression that is still happening that places our women beneath the rest of Canadian society and not where they should be. So this country -- or, like, here in Mi'gma'gi anyhow we have something called the peace and friendship treaty and that treaty is not being upheld, it's not being respected and our treaty rights are not honoured and actually when we assert our treaty rights, the Canadian government, police and whatnot, they get in the way, they sometimes have us arrested, has us -- have us fined and things like that when we assert our treaty rights on our own land and when the Canadian government gets in the way of us asserting treaty rights, they are breaking international law actually and so it's my full belief that if the treaties were honoured the way that they were intended to be, our Indigenous women would be where they should be and not where they are right now.

And so treaty law, international treaty law supersedes Canadian law so -- and that is why when the Canadian government denies our treaty rights they're breaking international treaty law. There are entire countries in this world that are -- their foundation, they're founded on -- on peace and friendship treaties like we have here in Mi'gma'gi. There are, yeah, countries in Africa that -- that came to be based on peace and friendship treaties. It's, like, their constitution.

So internationally, especially here in Mi'gma'gi where we have that peace and friendship treaty they're very strong and so we have some things within the peace and friendship treaty. Like, we have the rights to sell our wares, we have best advantage in trade, just to name a few things and a question that I really ask myself is if our -- okay. So we are a nation on an international level. We are not an Indigenous nation of Canada, we are a nation on an international level and we have international treaty rights and so where we have best advantage in trade under international treaty rights, why is it that we are the poorest people in the country on this land. If we're not being actively oppressed by the Canadian government. So let me gather my thoughts for a moment.

So it looks like to me that we actually don't have best advantage in trade currently, that it's actually the settler government you don't have bureaucracised (sic), you can look out your window and see who has best advantage in trade. And the way things are set up right now, back when the Canadian government has made us federal wards under their jurisdiction, they took it upon themselves long ago to do that to us. That right there was illegal under international treaty law, we should not be federal wards. We should be able to be independent of them, to make our own living on our own land with our own resources, not having restrictions and being oppressed by the government of Canada when we go to assert ourselves on our own lands to take care of ourselves and our families because actually we have every right to go out and make our own livelihoods but every time we do, somebody like DFO gets in the way, police get in the way and they charge us, fine us. When we go to even, like, hunt and things like that. And that shouldn't be. That is illegal under international treaty law. So because the Canadian government doesn't honour our treaties and because the Canadian government -- government made us -- took it upon themselves to make us federal wards and because the Canadian government doesn't allow us to be independent at -- they don't allow us to take care of ourselves under -- yeah.

So, yeah, the Canadian government doesn't even allow us to -- to take care of ourselves which we are fully capable of. So I am placing blame on the Canadian government for our act of oppression and for the position that Indigenous women are in in Canada. And there are other things under treaty. Like, Elizabeth Marshall wanted me to mention the child -- the current child welfare system and we need to give our power back to the grandmothers when it comes to child welfare, when it comes to decisions in -- that have to do with Indigenous children and -- because that's their traditional role and that's the traditional way. Because these children that are being taken and put into care by the Canadian government, they end up in this cycle, they're taken from their gijú, their grandmothers, they're put into care and they lose their way and then a lot of them find themselves in the system and then grow up to -- they're -- they grow up in the foster care system and then are -- end up in the correctional system and that's because the child welfare system takes them away from the grandmothers that's supposed to be caring for them and supposed to be raising them and keeping them and guiding them and making sure that they are safe and loved and looked after and so the --
and the grandmothers of the community need to have more say or a final say of what happens to every single Indigenous child that the Canadian government is dealing with. So essentially the Canadian government's still stealing our children and taking them from Indigenous families.

And so another thing is our traditional nation and government that was back when our treaties were ratified is the Wabanaki Confederacy and not the colonial government structures and reserves and band councils and chiefs that were set up by the Canadian government. The Canadian government did such a good job of tearing down our original traditional nation that we are still -- we still have work to do to build that. It is there, we do have a Wabanaki Confederacy and the Wabanaki Confederacy Alliance still exists and so when the Canadian government does -- and it talks about nation-to-nation relations and negotiations and they are negotiating with these chiefs and councils, band councils that are actually another extension of the Canadian government, that is actually the Canadian government negotiating with and amongst themselves. That is not nation to nation. The Canadian government has no idea how to properly consult with our real nation. When they go and they do consultation with these elected chiefs, that is then consulting -- the Canadian government consulting with Canadian government and ...

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): Can I add too?

MS. REBECCA MOORE: Yeah.

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): Because --

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: Okay. I'm just going to give the phone to Bernie because they're looking for me.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: Okay.

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: So you can talk to Christa, sorry.

I don't want them to look for me.

MS. BERNIE WILLIAMS: Hello?

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: No, you have to call him.

MS. BERNIE WILLIAMS: Okay.

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: Sorry, you want to add?

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): Oh, yeah. Because I think part of that is that the system that's set up now with band governments is from the Indian Act system but it's also from the Indian Agent system that controlled the -- you know, how it was, you know, effective on our people and so now it's turned into a sort of pseudo-government but it's still the same -- you know, they're learning the same things from that lineage

from the Indian Act agents.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: Mm-hmm.

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): So it -- it's a matter of [unintelligible] (lateral violence) and all this sort of thing that on one side those people have assimilated and disjoined themselves from the nation and that they're saying they represent and in every way that we have those core beliefs and values that is essentially our law that is within us.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: Mm-hmm.

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): When it goes against them, those laws that we carry, it's -- it becomes, like, this violent stick against us by our own people who are saying they represent us but they don't --

MS. REBECCA MOORE: Mm-hmm.

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): -- so we effectively have no representation.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: Yeah, definitely. And our sovereign people do not view those elected officials as our leaders, they're not.

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): Yeah, our people are [Indigenous language spoken] people, that's what we call ourselves and that's because of our belief system and the spirituality that we are -- we are to be true humans, that's -- that's our way of life and, you know, things weren't written because we had them in -- we were taught through our way of being so I think when we don't pass the [unintelligible] test, you know, it really goes a lot to show, like, how much they can represent us and how much they can represent the people.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: Mm-hmm. Because traditionally we follow the three cross teachings and we have -- we are part of the sacred covenant with Creator and that's our guiding way. Yeah, so -- so basically the Canadian government is actively oppressing Indigenous people in Canada and our position in Canada so -- so essentially the Canadian government is still robbing us blind, they're profiting off of our land and resources while still keeping us under their foot and that's ...

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): Yeah. Because we have a history here where the Canadian government just obtusely accepted us as wards of the government --

MS. REBECCA MOORE: Yes.

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): -- and then they put in place, you know, oh, you're not allowed to hire a lawyer until 1965 --

MS. REBECCA MOORE: Mm-hmm.

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): -- or whatever it was.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: Yes.

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): So how do we get ourselves out of that.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: Yeah.

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): And then there was -- you know, you're arrested when you're off reserve. You have to get a pass. And, oh, that pass is -- we never did that. You know, so there's all these steps that have been happening and it's just now, you know, that we've gotten to the point now where our treaties are accepted in the Constitution since 1982 I think. So, you know, that's just all of a sudden in 1982 Canada's, like, oh, we did kind of screw up.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: Yeah.

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): So -- so now we're still in this spot where -- you know, historically even, like, we haven't come to terms with what that actually was that they screwed up with and that's -- that's where we get back to that treaty relationship that should have happened but that has to be reassessed in a whole new --

MS. REBECCA MOORE: Mm-hmm.

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): -- way of perception.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: Because under a peace and friendship treaty, all we agreed to, the reason why our land is unceded, all we agreed to was peace and friendship. We never surrendered our territory, we never gave up our land and so that means -- I'll use an example. Like, our jurisdiction goes above, like, the mayor of Halifax's jurisdiction actually but everybody is so ignorant of the actual reality foundation of this country because actually it's through that peace and friendship treaty which even permitted settlers to settle here. So that's their foundation. And --
MS. REBECCA MOORE: -- it's their treaty as well and that's the real foundation for settling here and they disrespect the crap of it. So when --

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): Well, even --

MS. REBECCA MOORE: -- and when the major says that he has basically -- him and city council has the ultimate say of whether or not the Cornwallis statue comes down, I'm going to use that as an example, no, it's coming out -- it should come down because we say we don't want it there on our territory.

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): Or they could pay rent.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: Yeah, or they could pay rent.

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): Which was discussed --

MS. REBECCA MOORE: Or we could talk land title --

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): -- before the signing of the treaty.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: And, yeah, so ...

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): So there is a legal, like, precedent to have rent paid since before Canada existed.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: Mm-hmm.

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): Here on this territory.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: So our treaties if we assert them are actually so powerful, they're powerful enough to charge rent, pay -- make them pay rent because --

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): Rent for -- since Canada began.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: Yeah.

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): And not just that but also our trade benefits since before Canada started --

MS. REBECCA MOORE: Yeah.

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): -- is -- that's not even -- that's not -- that's a Crown obligation, --

MS. REBECCA MOORE: Mm-hmm.

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): -- that's not even registered under Canada books, that is a Crown obligation that was passed to Canada to get Canada safe from bankruptcy, that was our three million dollars --

MS. REBECCA MOORE: Mm-hmm.

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): -- that went to that to fund all of Canada's trade right now today as we sit here since Canada began.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: Mm-hmm.

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): We have -- we don't see benefit payments.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: We --

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): We're lending that money for free.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: We should have enough, we -- and we do have a solid enough treaty where we should be benefiting from -- economically enough to give all our nation a living wage -

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): Yeah.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: -- so that we don't have to live in poverty. Our people are not where they should be --

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): Like, I --

MS. REBECCA MOORE: -- because of Canada's act of oppression.

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): If it was doing the books, I don't think Canada can afford to pay us back.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: They can't.

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): Which actually puts us in a state of jeopardy. Like, they would rather kill us than pay us back.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: And that's what we're --

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): That's the bottom line.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: -- seeing. That's what we're seeing being played out right now.

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): So when we assert our rights, we're the people who are threatening that possible outcome, we're the ones who might come to that outcome when we're 60 or 45 or whatever. So we do get targeted.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: Mm-hmm.

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): By police, by government, by the

CRA. Like, there are people who talk to other people in government and go around and see how they can attack you.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: Mm-hmm.

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): I didn't get the child tax credit for 18 months. I have four kids and we've never had a custody issue. For no reason.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: Mm-hmm.

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): They don't have to. I work full time, I just have to work harder than everyone else in Canada.

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: So you feel you're affected by that.

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): Yeah, yeah.

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: Lots of other across Canada.

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): So then you have, you know, CPS always over your head too so I just live like that. You know, I just live with the -- the knowing that I always have to have my dishes done, that I always have to have my house in a state where CPS could walk through the door and have a conversation.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: Mm-hmm.

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): You know, that's how I live. But the -- you know, these standards aren't put on other people and when we put ourselves, you know, in a place where we're in the spotlight where we're, like -- like, coming out and saying these -- talking about these injustices because it'll keep going on if we don't, you know, it's -- it comes to this point where we are frontline to be attacked --

MS. REBECCA MOORE: Mm-hmm.

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): -- by -- when it comes down to -- you know, it's the government behind the scenes sometimes, certain individuals, who knows who they are, I don't, but, you know, then it comes down to promoting this public kind of nationalism against Indigenous people and that affects our women, it actually kills our women.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: It does. And we are the first generation that is actually free and educated enough to rise and assert.

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): Yeah.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: And that's what we're doing right now.

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: But they will attack you with the child benefit or --

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): Yeah.

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: -- many of us -- do you think -- I'll let you finish though.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: Well, no, I'm good.

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE:

Okay. Do you think -- I have so many things to say. I -- I would like to hear more about the threat because it's a new generation. But -- and [unintelligible] (then they) was threaten also and other women like her across Canada and today in 2007 [sic] what kind of threat is that.

UNIDENTIFIABLE SPEAKER (MS. BERNIE WILLIAMS): '17.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: I'm thinking about that right now as I sit in this chair speaking about it. Because we're talking about -- we're talking about the Canadian government and we're talking -- we're talking finances, we're talking, you know, they owe us a lot and they would rather kill us than pay us back and so -- and that's the reality and so when women like us speak out, that does put us in danger.

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): Yeah.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: If anybody's going to kill us, it's likely going to be the government.

UNIDENTIFIABLE SPEAKER: I have scars on my wrist from police, like, or -- just handcuffing me, tossing me around, arresting me for using sidewalk chalk to say a message.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: If anybody's going to kill us, it's likely either going to be the --

UNIDENTIFIABLE SPEAKER: So it's the police too.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: -- government -- the government or -- or one of these extraction companies trying to make money because of us asserting our treaty trying to protect Statement – Public

1 our lands from that. So because me, I'm a -- I'm a 2 sober Indigenous woman, I don't partake in high-risk
3 activities anymore at this point in my life and if 4 anything ever happens to me, it's because of my 5 activism and it's because of me asserting my treaty
6 rights and being a threat to the Canadian government
7 and the economy.
8 (MS. TAYLOR PAUL): I've noticed it's, like, that 9 keenness that is the threat. It's, like, if -- if you 10 want to be a drunk or if you want to do pills, you're 11 off their radar, you know, but it's -- it's that being 12 able to speak up for yourself even because things are 13 going on when you don't speak up for yourself,
14 that's -- that's -- you know, they're still killing us 15 and, you know, we don't -- we're kept in a state of 16 poverty which actually does affect things. They say 17 money doesn't buy happiness but we're given so 18 little --
19 MS. REBECCA MOORE: It can give you security.
20 (MS. TAYLOR PAUL): -- that it is full-time depression
21 for some people for their entire frigging lives.
22 MS. REBECCA MOORE: Yeah.
23 (MS. TAYLOR PAUL): When we're supposed to be getting 24 benefit payments. There is no trustee relationship 25 out there like the Crown has with our people that doesn't get some kind of benefit payment. You don't get trustee beneficiaries that can -- that apply for welfare that can get welfare.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: Mm-hmm.

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): Like, that just doesn't happen.

So what is the Crown doing here?

MS. REBECCA MOORE: We are essentially heirs.

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): Yeah.

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: What is heirs?

MS. REBECCA MOORE: An heir.

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): Like, a beneficiary. Like, a -- like, our treaties are [unintelligible] (unsettled), this land is unceded, nothing is sacrificed, rent was discussed so there is a precedent that we understood that land cost money and that these people wanted to use land and that there's a price associated with the use of land.

UNIDENTIFIABLE SPEAKER (MS. BERNIE WILLIAMS): And that would be passed down the heirs to --

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: Thanks.

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): So whatever was not talked about at that point what was expected to be determined at that point but then we had a scalping proclamation after the -- the signing of the peace and friendship treaty there was one so, you know, how do you discuss rent when you're running away from people collecting Rebecca Moore & Taylor Paul

your scalps for 500 bucks apiece?

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: Do you have any First Nation community or your people in court challenging Canada with -- about this in Mi'gma'gi?

MS. REBECCA MOORE: Not currently but there has been. Like, --

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: Okay.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: -- one of our mentors, Kevin Christmas, he has taken Canada to court to -- he has had a case with Privy Council about Indigenous fishing communities
because they were almost dying, they were almost gone, our traditional and -- like, fishing industries and Kevin Christmas was very active in bringing our fishing industries back to life and those communities are still thriving because of work that he's done on an international level.

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: Okay.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: So -- and that's one of our -- one of my best mentors.

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: Mm-hmm.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: Yeah.

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: What I could propose to you is that a lot of us from inside of this Inquiry are former activists or, you know, people that worked or -- you know, for -- for the land or, you know, protecting the land or protecting the women's rights and so on so we have a beautiful diversity of people --

MS. REBECCA MOORE: Mm-hmm.

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: -- across Canada --

MS. REBECCA MOORE: Mm-hmm.

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: -- plus our grandmothers and all that are there with us and for us. What would you see in the report? I have a vision but I want to hear it from you. That we have a space, a beautiful space to -- before we go deeper in the report, how would you see -- I wish I could speak English, I'm exhausted. A treaty and everything you -- you spoke, how do you see it inside the report or -- and where?

MS. REBECCA MOORE: Well, I would probably -- I think I already said it. I said that the Canadian government's act of oppression and total disregard for our treaty rights,

our international treaty rights that we have places us in these positions, in a position of poverty and beneath the -- the rest of Canadian society and not where we rightfully should be.

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: So has to be at the beginning, -- very --

the foundation.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: Yeah.

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: -- very soon

MS. REBECCA MOORE: Yeah.

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: And would you be comfortable that with this I make sure that the research see the transcript

and the video --

MS. REBECCA MOORE: Mm-hmm.

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: -- and that could help us to build that chapter in that report to make sure that we hear from you, we also hear from the women from the east, the west, the north, Prairies -- Prairies that they have that same vision, that same -- what you --

UNIDENTIFIABLE SPEAKER (MS. BERNIE WILLIAMS): I think that that's, like, a dialogue in itself --

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: What --

UNIDENTIFIABLE SPEAKER (MS. BERNIE WILLIAMS): -- to gather a group of women --

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: Mm-hmm.

UNIDENTIFIABLE SPEAKER (MS. BERNIE WILLIAMS): -- you know, from these places and that --

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: Right.

UNIDENTIFIABLE SPEAKER (MS. BERNIE WILLIAMS): -- because this really coincides when you're talking about the land how the Murdered and Missing Women is linked up. Scenario would be you got five hundred Indigenous women from this reserve so when you start killing off these 500 women so we know that each woman will give birth to three to five children in their lifetime so you times that.

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: All right.
UNIDENTIFIABLE SPEAKER (MS. BERNIE WILLIAMS): So you times your 500 women by five children, times that, that's how much would be wiped out --

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: Mm-hmm.

UNIDENTIFIABLE SPEAKER (MS. BERNIE WILLIAMS): -- to build that nation back up, they don't want that. So I think that that needs to be, like, a really -- it would be, like, a dialogue in itself to lead up to because when we talk about getting to the root of the problem, that starts right there.

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: Perfect.

UNIDENTIFIABLE SPEAKER (MS. BERNIE WILLIAMS): And you build off of that.

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: Okay.

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): But there's also the direct connection between what we now know as extractive industry which fits very aptly under the term ecocide. We have genocide. Canada is founded on genocide.

Canada is founded on ecocide.

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: What is ecocide?

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): Ecocide -- ecocide is the killing of the land, of the -- of the environment.

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: Okay.

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): So both of those -- both of those -- both of those are acts of destruction. Those acts of destruction is what the Canadian economy is based on. To gain full, unrestricted access to what they call resources that are our gifts of our land that we are responsible for because we come from the land, they take us out of the way. Initially they signed these agreements, these documents, these treaties, these doctrines and in order to not be held legally, financially responsible for those agreements which were made in good faith for the first Innu, if they eliminate the descendants of the people who signed it and the people of the land now they have full access. So both the Canadian economy at its inception and today are founded primarily on the murder, not the death, the murder of our women. It's happening while we sit here.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: Yeah.

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): We look at the connection between Justin Trudeau saying he supports this Inquiry then approving pipelines, approving dams, not stepping in for fish farms, not stepping in for logging, pushing mining, pushing [unintelligible] (mining) because what comes with those [unintelligible] and band council comes with those is the infrastructure that then requires the -- the underground economy which the number one commodity is our women.

UNIDENTIFIABLE SPEAKER: Yeah.
COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: Okay.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: And so with that and that mention of their descendants, who Taylor and I are, we are direct descendants of Jean-Baptist Cope who signed the treaty, Chief Jean-Baptist Cope who signed the treaty of 1752, the peace and friendship treaty.

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: Okay. That's what you were saying --

MS. REBECCA MOORE: Yes. So we are here and we are here to assert the treaty and that's what we are going to do and -- but that's also what puts us in great jeopardy as well.

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: Can I propose this: That there's beautiful, strong, amazing women across Canada and I know some of us discuss we want to put in place some -- to help the report because it's -- we have a beginning and an end date for this mandate so we want to make sure that we put as much as we can strong information with facts with -- you know, or I believe that if's not a paper it's a voice that become a fact for me, okay, that's my school of thinking. And we want to create a -- a -- a space where we can bring women across Canada who, like you, defending, push because we don't hear enough and we could make it ...

You want to say something?

UNIDENTIFIABLE SPEAKER (MS. BERNIE WILLIAMS): Can I suggest you some -- I just had a brain fart, okay.

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: Okay.

UNIDENTIFIABLE SPEAKER (MS. BERNIE WILLIAMS): You know where they have -- what do you call it? Expert hearings?

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: That's it. That's it.

UNIDENTIFIABLE SPEAKER (MS. BERNIE WILLIAMS): That's where it is, expert hearing.

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: Yeah, for me an expert, it's somebody who has a passion.

UNIDENTIFIABLE SPEAKER (MS. BERNIE WILLIAMS): Yeah.

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: A family member, a -- a warrior.

UNIDENTIFIABLE SPEAKER (MS. BERNIE WILLIAMS): Yeah.

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: You don't need to have 13 degrees to be an expert --

UNIDENTIFIABLE SPEAKER (MS. BERNIE WILLIAMS): Yeah.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: -- and -- or on specific issue and this one a year ago I heard Missing and Murdered and it -- and it was you in Vancouver [unintelligible] --

UNIDENTIFIABLE SPEAKER (MS. BERNIE WILLIAMS): Yeah.

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: -- so it -- we have to put it there officially.

UNIDENTIFIABLE SPEAKER (MS. BERNIE WILLIAMS): Yeah. And I think that that's your beginning --

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: Oui.

UNIDENTIFIABLE SPEAKER (MS. BERNIE WILLIAMS): -- of everything right there because when they know the history exactly what you're saying, you know, it's the international Indian laws and that too.

UNIDENTIFIABLE SPEAKER: Yeah.

UNIDENTIFIABLE SPEAKER (MS. BERNIE WILLIAMS): We can't say too much because we're, you know, part of the change here but I -- I -- I would really like to take off that hat to be a part of, you know, that expert hearing because this is what we've been doing for over --

COMMISSIONER MICHELE AUDETTE: Okay.

UNIDENTIFIABLE SPEAKER (MS. BERNIE WILLIAMS): -- 50 years, 40, 50 years.

COMMISSIONER MICHELE AUDETTE: Okay.

UNIDENTIFIABLE SPEAKER (MS. BERNIE WILLIAMS): I really have to -- sorry, but she has to do the closing remark and they're waiting for you.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: Oh, okay.

COMMISSIONER MICHELE AUDETTE: Is that okay?

UNIDENTIFIABLE SPEAKER (MS. REBECCA MOORE): Oh, yeah.

COMMISSIONER MICHELE AUDETTE: But it's not over.

UNIDENTIFIABLE SPEAKER (MS. BERNIE WILLIAMS): It's not over.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: It's not over.

COMMISSIONER MICHELE AUDETTE: It's not over. That's how I see it. If it's not me, it's --

UNIDENTIFIABLE SPEAKER (MS. BERNIE WILLIAMS): But that expert hearing --

COMMISSIONER MICHELE AUDETTE: -- Bernie, it's not Bernie, it's the research team.

UNIDENTIFIABLE SPEAKER (MS. BERNIE WILLIAMS): Yeah.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: Yeah.

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: And we're connected now on both.

UNIDENTIFIABLE SPEAKER: Yeah, we're all connected.

UNIDENTIFIABLE SPEAKER (MS. BERNIE WILLIAMS): Yeah. So we're going to network this together and there's other --

MS. REBECCA MOORE: Okay.

UNIDENTIFIABLE SPEAKER (MS. BERNIE WILLIAMS): -- powerhouses.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: Yeah. Because my personal agenda for the rest of my life and -- is to bring my nation back up where it should be on an international level and we are not wards of the federal government of Canada --

UNIDENTIFIABLE SPEAKER: Mm-hmm.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: -- and we should not be. That's not our place.

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): Just before we close, we're just supposed to -- I know Elizabeth Marshall commented and just the -- I just wanted to reiterate the systemic issue of -- of children going from CPS to the justice system and then, you know, the cycle of violence that keeps that perpetuating and how much that, you know, plays a part in the destruction of -- of our communities but here on Mi'gma'gi (Mi'kmaq) land, I actually don't know how Canada has any right to have any justice on Mi'gma'gi (Mi'kmaq) people.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: I feel the same way. I -- yes.

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): I don't think there is any kind of paper that exits that has any legal authority given to Canada to give them justice over our people.

UNIDENTIFIABLE SPEAKER (MS. BERNIE WILLIAMS): That's why you need to use, like, the Humans Rights, the International Human Rights law.

UNIDENTIFIABLE SPEAKER: And connecting the dots --

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: Merci.

UNIDENTIFIABLE SPEAKER: -- of people --

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: Merci.

MS. SHELBY THOMAS: Okay. Just wait, before --

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: Wait.

MS. SHELBY THOMAS: -- we go off the record, I just want everyone to confirm that every statement they made is voluntary --

UNIDENTIFIABLE SPEAKER: Yes.

MS. SHELBY THOMAS: -- today.

MS. REBECCA MOORE: Yes.

UNIDENTIFIABLE SPEAKER: Yeah.

UNIDENTIFIABLE SPEAKER: Voluntary.

UNIDENTIFIABLE SPEAKER: And before we --

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: Merci.

UNIDENTIFIABLE SPEAKER (MS. AUDREY SIEGL): -- go off the record,

I'd like to say [Musqueam language spoken] to each of you for being here, for sharing your truth, for standing in your power and honouring all the women who came before you and all the ones who will come after you because this is how we change it.

UNIDENTIFIABLE SPEAKER: Thank you.

COMMISSIONER MICHÈLE AUDETTE: Merci.

MS. SHELFY THOMAS: And this is the closing statement of Rebecca Moore and ...

(MS. TAYLOR PAUL): Taylor Paul.

MS. SHELFY THOMAS: ... Taylor Paul and it is 6 p.m. in Membertou, Nova Scotia.
