Upon commencing on Wednesday, February 14, 2018 at 11:55 a.m., MS. DEBBIE BODKIN: Okay. The time is 11:52 a.m. and it is still February 14th. (Off-the-record housekeeping) And so I'm going to let you introduce yourself, and tell us whatever it is you’re comfortable sharing today.

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: Okay. My name is Jolene Googoo, and I'm from We'kogma'q, Nova Scotia. Um, well, there's so much to say. So, when I don't really know where to start, I usually just start from the beginning.

MS. DEBBIE BODKIN: Perfect.

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: So, so I'll just say, make a little bit -- I'll tell you how, maybe how it all started. How I grew up a little bit. I grew up in a, like, an alcoholic, um, home, kind of abusive. My, my father was abusive with my mother and, um, they drank and stuff. And it, I have, there's me and there's my -- I have two sisters: one is, she's a year older than me; and the other one was, or it, or was five or six years older than me. She's passed away, now, in 2009.

But, um, but me and my mother we were really close growing up and stuff. She was a good, she was
Jolene Googoo
(Mother & Mellissa Marshall)

1. a good person. Like, um, she, she did drink. She did have
2. a problem drinking and stuff and it's because I think she -
3. - her mother walked out on her and her seven sisters when
4. she was young. So I think that, kind of, she had a hard
5. time with that.
6. She, so, um, so that left my older sister,
7. Mellissa, to kind of take care of us. She took care of us.
8. I remember she took me to my first day of kindergarten, and
9. I cried for her. I was so attached to her, and, um, so,
10. yeah.
11. And, um, like, I, I don't really remember,
12. like, a whole lot of good things, I would say about my, my
13. childhood. No, no a lot of good things. Like, I remember,
14. the first thing I remember, I think my very first memory
15. was waking up in the middle of the night and I heard my
16. mother yelling, and she was saying, "No, [M.]." That's my
17. dad's name. "No." And then we ran out to the, to the
18. hallway, and I seen my dad and he pushed her down the
19. stairs from, from behind, like, we had, like, 12 flights of 20. stairs going down. And I was probably four or five because
21. I didn't really, like, register what was going on. And she
22. fell down the stairs, and she was at the bottom, and she
23. was crying. And then he ran down and I, I remember
24. thinking he was going to go help her, but when he got to
25. the bottom of the stairs, he started, um, like choking her.
And I was like, "Oh my God," you know. So me and my sisters ran down and my, my, my mother told my older sister to go get my grandfather - my dad's dad - because, you can, so I didn't -- they didn't really call the cops a lot. They just got my grandfather, and he would come over, and he would take my dad away for a few hours, and he'd come back, like, sober and sorry and whatever. So --

MS. DEBBIE BODKIN: And where was that?

Where were you growing up when this happened?

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: In We'kogma'q, in the same house. He lives in, he's still there. So. Yeah. And so, um, like, even though my, my parents they both worked, um, we still, we weren't very, we were kind of poor. Like, um, like, we didn't really have, like, a lot of breakfasts, and sometimes we didn't have any breakfast stuff and, you know, or lunches and stuff like that, and, like, that we needed. So when my sister -- and, like, um, the music would always be so loud. Like, in the middle of night when we were going to sleep. Like, we used to all sleep together - me and my sisters - and, um, so I could kind of, like, sleep through stuff. I think that's having to sleep through stuff from when I was younger.

And so, my sister, I think she always felt like she was taking care of us. She wasn't much older, but she always kept an eye on us and got us to school and took care of us, and when she got a little bit older, she (inaudible) [went and] got a part-time job when she was 15 at the store and made sure we had lunch for the next day and, um, you know, sandwich stuff and food, you know, just stuff like that.

And, um, my mom, she was always, my parents, both of them were always, they always juggled with rehab and stuff like that. They always went back and forth and then they'd do good for a little while and then they wouldn't and then they'd go back and -- we went to a lot of graduations.

MS. DEBBIE BODKIN: And just to interrupt you there, do you know -- was there a cause in your parents' background that caused the alcoholism?

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: Um, like -

MS. DEBBIE BODKIN: Were either of them in residential school or anything like that that you know of?

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: I don't know. I don't think so. I think they're a little bit young for that.

Um. I know my dad, his, um, his dad was, had alcohol problems, and was abusive to his mother. And with my mother her, her dad was, um, had alcohol problems as he grew up.

MS. PAULA FOLEY: And then you said your mother's mother left.

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: Yeah. And went, and things got kind of worse when my mom's mom, my grandmother -- she wouldn't really let us call her Grammy when we grew up, she was really [inaudible] [grinchy] and, um, she, so, because when she ran away to Boston, when they went to go and find her and bring her back, and she wouldn't come back. So they weren't really too happy about that. So I think that's where it all kind of happened, yeah. And, um, [inaudible] [beyond that] I'm pretty sure that my great-grandfather was also an alcoholic, too. So I think it just kind of runs in the family.

So my sister, yeah. She always took on that role and she was, um, really, really great with us, and then it got, she got a little bit older and then like a teenager, she wanted to keep going to school, but she was having a hard time, and she wanted to work and, you know, take care of us at the same time. And, um, so when I was 11, she moved to Truro. I was so devastated, I cried so hard when she left. But she would come back on the weekends and stuff like that, and, um, um, shared -- my aunt's husband [Uncle 1], he's [identifying information redacted]. Um, he, he paid for the motel and bought her clothes and stuff like that for --
To look after her in Truro.

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: Yeah, yeah.

MS. DEBBIE BODKIN: Okay.

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: But, um, like, she later on talked about it, and it wasn't really, like, somebody doing something nice for a person without, you know, expecting other things. And that must have been really hard for her, too, because at that time because that she, that she didn't do, like, any drugs and that she didn't drink and she didn't do, like, none of that stuff. So she -- that must have been really difficult for, to kind of have to --

MS. PAULA FOLEY: Live through that.

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: Yeah. So I think that's were things kind of started going really, kind of, going wrong for her at that time.

And then, um, so ever since that, she ended up with a Mohawk guy from Kahnawake and, um, she got pregnant with, with his son, and then she moved to Kahnawake with him until she was, um, six months pregnant, and then she moved back home with us, and she stayed, and she stayed with us, I think it was, like, three or four years after that.

And, um, I would help her with her son, and, you know my nephew and, like, I always felt like I
Jolene Googoo
(Mother & Mellissa Marshall)

needed to help her back, kind of, for helping us when we were growing up. So I always felt like I, kind of, like I owed it to her and stuff. And then, um, but I was also close with my mother, too. Like, um, when -- let's see. So my sister ended up going out with this guy who she ended up marrying, [Mellissa’s Husband]. And she ended up going out with him, and, um, and then that's when she moved to Truro and she got pregnant with her second kid.

MS. DEBBIE BODKIN: Okay. Moved to Truro
for a second time.

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: Um hum.

MS. DEBBIE BODKIN: Okay.

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: And then, um, and then she moved to Halifax when she got pregnant with her third child.

And then I was 17 at the time and, um, my other sister, [Sister], she, she was going out with a guy in the Marines and, um, she got pregnant when she was 16 and then she -- with his kid. And then she dropped out of school, and then, so, um, he was -- I think he was about four months old when Mellissa started having problems. Not really so much her, but, um, like, child services started being called on her because her, um, boyfriend was in the drugs and stuff.

MS. DEBBIE BODKIN: Okay.
MS. BARBARA JOHNSON: She wasn't at that time, but he was. So they were watching her and stuff and she was struggling to like take care of them and stuff, so --

MS. DEBBIE BODKIN: And where were they living then?

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: Um, they moved to Halifax and she was pregnant with her daughter, [Niece], and, um, yeah.

So, so I would go out and visit her, and then I realized she really needed help so I decided to move up there and finish my grade 12 at QVH. So, um, I told my mother about it in the summer and she was devastated, and she was like, "Oh, I can't stay here without you and if you move, I'm gonna move and stuff like that." She was like, "You can't leave me with your sister and your father." And I was like, I was like, um, I said -- well, you know, my other sister, too, she just had a son and stuff, and but they, but her and my mother always butt heads and stuff and they had a hard time getting along. And I was like, "Well, you can stay here for her and all that." And she's like, "No." And she was crying.

So I didn't really think she would. I thought she would stay, but, um, I moved anyways, and I moved in the middle - well, not middle of the -- it was around 11 or 12 at night and I didn't have much stuff. So at the time, Morly (ph) Googoo was the Chief and he had a truck, so I asked him if he could, um, move us, well, move me into Halifax because he was traveling back and forth. So he said, "Yeah." So I packed up all my stuff and my mom stayed in her room the whole time. She wouldn't come out. She was really upset. So just figured I'd give her a few days and then, um, so I went to Halifax and then. Oh, it was, maybe, like, two weeks -- and I enrolled in school, I started going to school, and helped my sister and stuff.

And, um, it was probably about two weeks later my mother calls and she's like, "Guess where I am." And I was, like, "I don't know. Where?" And she was, like, "In Shube, in Indian Brook. I moved." She was, like, "And I moved all my stuff." And all this, and I was, like, "Oh my God. You did?" And she was, like, "Yeah." She said, "I told you I wasn't going to stay here if you left." And I felt so bad. Well, I felt bad for my other sister and her, right? So I was, like, oh. So, but at the same time, I was kind of happy because I did miss her. So it didn't take her long. She got a job right away, pretty much, at the daycare and she came down the weekends and we spent weekends together and stuff and, um, we'd get our hair done and all that, and, um. So my mother started going out with her old, her old boyfriend from when she was a teenager, and, um, so -- yeah. So they started going out. And I kind of, I heard a lot of really bad things about him that he didn't treat his other girlfriends very nicely and he's abusive and stuff, but I didn't meet him. And then, um,

And then she would, she called me up and she told me that, um, he - or not that he - but she fell down the stairs and she, um, sprained her, she fractured, broke her arm, or, in, like, three places or something.

She had a cast on and stuff. And I started getting suspicions at that time.

And then so I was, um, and then a couple more weeks went by - and I remember this really well because it was around middle of November and my sister was about eight months pregnant, Mellissa, the one I was staying with - and it just started snowing that day, and I promised my other sister back home, [Sister] and my dad, that I'd go home for the weekend and so my mother called and she's like, "I'm coming down this weekend." She told me and I was like, "Oh. But I already got a ride and I promised [Sister] and dad I'd go see them." And, um --

MS. DEBBIE BODKIN: What year is this?

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: This is in 2002. And, um, so she's like, "Oh, but I said wanted to see you." And I was, "Well, we can spend next weekend together, you know, and we'll make up for it, (inaudible) [but they’re really lonesome] and stuff."

So, I end up going back to We'kogma'q and, but it was like bad snowstorm all the way. So we stopped in Truro because it was so bad for the night, and my cousin drove me. And it was kind of like a sign. And so I even called my sister Mellissa, and I was I, kind of, got a bad feeling in Truro. I was like, "I don't know. I feel like taking the bus back to, um, Halifax." I said. I didn't. "I feel like things are keeping me here, like, you know, bad weather and stuff like that." I just didn't feel right about it. And she was like, "Well," she goes, "We're all right." And I was, like, I asked her how she was doing. She was like, "We're okay." She was, like, "You should keep going." And I was, like, "All right." So I kept going and then the wipers stopped working and then the rain started and then we, we couldn't make it any further than Afton. So we stopped in Afton. And then somebody from We'kogma'q came to pick us up. So it was just really a struggle getting home. And so, I got home. And then when I got home, my dad and my sister weren't even there. There was nobody even there. It was, like, oh my God. Why did I even come back here? So I went to, um, my friend's house and, um, so I just dropped off my duffle bag and I went to his house. And I wasn't -- I was there maybe an hour, and... anybody who knew, they knew where to find me. So they -- my cousin did end up coming over and she's like, um, she says "Jolene, Jolene." She's like, "Um, you have to come over Grammy's." She's like "It's your mother. She, um, she fell down the stairs and she's, um, she's not really doing too good." I was like, "She fell down the stairs? Like, that's kind of weird. Like. Why wouldn't she be doing too good," right? "It can't be that bad." And she was, like,
"No, it's really bad and she's getting, um, air-lifted from Shube to Halifax." And I was, like, "Air-lifted? Oh my God." So I went up to my, my grandmother's and we were calling the hospital and stuff and the, um, news wasn't good. She had to go to surgery to relieve some of the pressure from her brain, and um, so -- and my, my sister was pregnant. She was there. So she signed the consent forms, kind of, to buy us more time to get there, too.

So, um, we all traveled, and it was a really emotional trip. And we traveled to get there, and then we got there and, um, she was just getting out of surgery when we got there and, um, my, my sister was trying to prepare us for what we would see, but there was no words that could ever prepare you for what you were going to see.
I'll never forget. But she was in the ICU and when we walked in, she, um, there was a lot of fluid built up, like, from the surgery and stuff, right? And they shaved her head and she had, like, a band-aid on and stuff, and she was um, they put her on life support, like, you know.
It was just an awful, awful, like, sight. Like, and, um --

MS. PAULA FOLEY: Just breathe. Yeah.

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: -- and so. So we were all, like, you know, we were all there. There was? There was two sides of the family, like, my sister -- my mom had a big family. And my dad had a big family, too. So they were kind of clashing, right? Like, um, and we were, it was, like, like, probably, like 20 something, 23, I think, first cousins on one side, and I think 24 first cousins on the other side and, like, 5 on the side of my dad's side and then there's, like, 6 on my mom's side. And, you know, so there was a lot.

And then so the, the, the doctor kept coming out and giving us all updates on how she was and, you know, she wasn't doing very good at all. And they said -- so she started having, like, strokes on, like, the second day and this -- by that time, my whole family was, like, really arguing with each other so we had to, like -- I kind of had to say, you know, we've got to bring somebody in, like, to mediate, and, um, from now on, doctors are going to talk to me and my sisters and my dad. And then we'll tell, you know, the mediator, and then he'll tell my family members, right? And then because my aunts were,
1 like, already arguing about, like, like, the wake the 2 funeral, and, like, she wasn't even gone, yet. And it was 3 really upsetting.
4 But, what was really the most upsetting
5 thing, I'd say, what upset me, really, the most was one of 6 my aunts, um, snuck in her, her boyfriend at the, you know, 7 she was staying with.
8 MS. PAULA FOLEY: Your mother's boyfriend?
9 MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: Yeah. And to the ICU
10 when we were gone and when my sister's getting washed up or 11 something. One of my cousins told me, and I was really 12 upset about it, and I was, like, he's probably, he's 13 probably trying to make sure that she's, you know, gone and 14 that she can't tell on him. And I, like, suspected him
15 right away, right from the beginning, I had a really bad 16 feeling that he, you know, pushed her. And, um, so I asked 17 about, I asked about the cops and if they were 18 investigating it, and they said they weren't because they 19 said that, um, that they weren't investigating it because 20 she was still alive and that they weren't going to 21 investigate it until she died. And then, I was, like, I 22 wasn't happy about that because I was, like, all the 23 evidence will be gone and stuff, you know. And, um -- 24 MS. DEBBIE BODKIN: How did the police get 25 there? Like, how did they get involved? Like, did one of you call them? Or do you remember?

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: Well, I think they were involved from the beginning.

MS. DEBBIE BODKIN: Okay. So you think.

MS. PAULA FOLEY: Like, and 9-1-1 call?

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: Yeah. Well, my aunt did call 9-1-1. When, when she went looking for my mother that day, she said she walked in, and, um, [Mother’s Boyfriend] - his name was - he was sitting there having a bologna sandwich, sitting at the table with his brothers, and she said, "Where is my, um, sister?" and all that. And then, he was, like, "Oh. She went downstairs to do laundry a long time ago, and she never came back up." And when they went down, she was already laying down at the bottom of the stairs and the blood was really thick, they said. So nobody has really any idea how long she was even laying down there. And it wasn't even that many stairs. There was probably, maybe, like, six or seven stairs. And there's no railings going down, but, you know, she wasn't really that clumsy. But, anyways, um --

MS. DEBBIE BODKIN: And sorry. Before you go on. What's [Mother’s Boyfriend] full name?

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: Um, [first name] --

MS. DEBBIE BODKIN: It's okay that you don't remember right now.
MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: -- [last name].

MS. DEBBIE BODKIN: [Mother’s Boyfriend].

Okay. Thank you.

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: And um, so, yeah, so, um, back at the hospital --

MS. DEBBIE BODKIN: And the police, you mentioned.

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: -- so I'll get back to that part. But then at the hospital she started having all these strokes and stuff and then all those good parts of her brain were gone, like the personality and that humor and all that good stuff, right? But her heart was really strong. Like, her body was strong. She never smoked or nothing. She was in good shape, right? And so, um, the -- I remember, I remember I was crying, um, and I was hugging her and stuff and, um, she kind of, like, I don't know, she coughed, but she -- the way I felt when I was hugging her, crying, it was like she was gone already. It felt like she was dead already. So I was just, kind of, crying. So when she, kind of, like, jumped up like that, it felt like she was coming back to life and it really scared me. And I even, like, jumped back and I got scared, right? And I -- and then my aunt was like, "It's okay. It's okay. She's just coughing." But I was still really shooken up by it, and I had nightmares about it, for years after that about her, like, sitting, coming back to life, and like, you know, looking over and, you know.

Um, so, then the, um, the doctor came and he talked to us, and he said that, um, if, if we were going to take her off life support that we would have to make that decision, like, right away, because, um, because there was that window was closing, and like, and she would be kept like a vegetable and I know she wouldn't want that.
And it seemed like my sisters and my, my dad, they were like, in, in shock, like, they were just, kind of, dazed, like. They weren't really hearing what was being said, and, um, like, they just weren't. I don't know why. She just -- some people get really shocked with, I think, when traumatic things happen. I can -- I don't get shocked. I, kind of, skip that part. It hits me, I don't know, like,
right away.

And, um, so, so I told the doctor, um, to take her off life support right away, like, as soon as you can. But, I wasn't going to tell my family that because they would want, like, my aunts and stuff, they would want to keep her around no matter what. And, um, like, even if she wasn't, like, in the hospital (inaudible) or anything like that. And so, um, the doctor did do that, and he took her off and she did last, she lasted 13 and a half hours off life support, and it was horrible for two and a half hours because she was, just, like, like, like struggling, her every breath, like, it was so horrible to see that. And I kind of felt bad about. I always felt really guilty about it.

But, um, like, my family started arguing about it after that, you know, they wanted to have an open casket, they wanted her, um, to be, her wake and her funeral to be in Shube, but I was, like, 100 percent sure she was pushed downstairs. I didn't want her to be buried in Shube, and she lived in We'kogma'q for 25 years, so she kind of made that her home. So I knew we were bringing her home and I, I kind of called all the shots because my sisters and my dad they were too, like, like, dazed and like --

MS. PAULA FOLEY: They weren't able?

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: No. They weren't able to make any kind of decisions at all. And even after, too, even after she died, I went to the funeral place, and I, I said "It's going to be a closed casket." Even though my aunts wanted it to be open, because she was really, really self-conscious about her looks and stuff, and she wouldn't want anybody to see her like that. She wouldn't even have wanted us to see her like that, let alone everybody, right? So I did feel bad for her aunts, though.

I mean my aunt, her sisters -- because I have sisters, right? So I said, "Okay. So, I said, "Well, I'll let them have the wake for two days and a night in Shube, but not at the reserve. Outside of the reserve. Like, in the, on the other side, at the funeral parlor." And I said, "Then we'll have the wake in We'kogma'q, and then she'll be buried in We'kogma'q."

So I went to the funeral -- we all went, but, I picked out all the cards and the poems and that and, you know, the separate cards for both separate places, and, you know, made, picked her outfit and all that, and, um, the tears [pictures] and stuff, and, um, I picked out of casket. And, um --

MS. PAULA FOLEY: A lot of (inaudible), eh?

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: Yeah. But, you know. So, so, well, um, we all went back to We'kogma'q after that, and then, we had -- the family was really, they were so mad. Her sisters were so mad about I was taking her back home to be buried that, um, I think only one or two of them showed up for the funeral. They were that mad. And they stayed mad for years. And like, seven years after that, that's how long they stayed mad for until, until, um, my sister passed away. That's how long they stayed mad at us for. So, just like, stubborn.

And, um, so a couple of months after, not even -- maybe about a month after my mom passed away, um, I stopped going to school and I moved back to We'kogma'q.
And, um, I went to Shube to go there for, um, and I stayed with my aunt, but I didn't tell her what I was doing there, but I told my cousin. And I got him to drive me around and stuff. And I stayed there for a week and I went to the police station and stuff. And, um, I looked at the statements from when that was there, and I read year ago's statements, and then I asked about, like, asked the cops -- they were really nice, and they were, like, you know, friendly and stuff. They were trying to help. I think they felt bad for me.

MS. DEBBIE BODKIN: What police service was it.

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: Um. Just the RCMP.

MS. DEBBIE BODKIN: RCMP gentlemen.

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: In Indian Brook.

MS. DEBBIE BODKIN: In Indian Brook?
Okay.

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: Um hum. So, you know, they -- I asked them if I wanted to get her case re-opened or get it re-investigated, you know, what to do? And they said that I should take, um, re-take their statements and, um, they told me how to do it. Like, you know, either write it down or get them to write it out and make sure that they read it or you read it to them and they sign it at the end.

So that's what I did. So I took everybody's statement again, and it was totally different from the one I read. And the last person I did was [Mother's Boyfriend], because I didn't really want to meet him, but I did anyways.

MS. DEBBIE BODKIN: Who were the others?

What you say "everybody". How many?

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: It was, like, I think, two or three of his brothers, the neighbour that lives across the road. They were all drinking that day.

And like, because, and she had, like, a $900 paycheck, and, like, none of her money was in her account and there's, like, you know -- that's not like her. She was always saving money and, like, she kept track of every cent, so it was weird that that money was gone.

And so, I went to -- so my cousin drove me. My sisters thought I was crazy for going back (inaudible) and I really felt like I needed answers. I needed closure, right? And so, I was so nervous before going. My cousin said, "Are you sure you want to go in?"

"Yeah, I'm going to do this," I said. And he's like, "I'll wait right here. If you need, if you need help," he said, "just yell for me or something." And I said, "Okay."
So I went in and, um, as soon as I walked in, he, he recognized me. Because I look a lot like my mother, and then, so, um, as soon as he seen me, he said um, he asked everybody, his brothers to leave and to talk to me alone. So they left and then, so, I sat down, and I was, like, kind of nice to him - well not nice to him - but I was, like, you know, it was really hard for me to do that.

So first I asked him to tell he what happened that whole day, from the beginning to the end, like, step-by-step, like, every little thing. And so, like, he, he told me and he walked me right through it. And then he told me, like, she, she fell in the, in the, um, and hit her head on the corner of the entertainment stand in the living room; and then she fell and she hit her head on the, um, the side of the bathtub, and stuff; and then her clothes got bloody; and that's why she was going down to the basement to wash her clothes that were bloody. And she wasn't, she wasn't, like, really even that clumsy of a person, even when she was drinking, right? And then, so I wasn't buying it at all. I knew, I just knew he was lying. And when, even when he walked me through everything and said what happened, and we went down to the basement, there was even still, like, the, um, chalk outline of where she was, because that's how, like, how close everything happened, which was not that long ago, right?

And so, so then we sat down and then I got him to, to tell it to me all over again, but slower, and that time I wrote it down and I wrote it down, what he was saying, and it was, like, so many pages, and then I read it back to him, and then I got him to sign the bottom of it, and then I, when I was leaving, I told him, I said, I said, "[Mother’s Boyfriend]." I said, "I really don’t like you." I said, "And I really think that you pushed my mother down the stairs," and I said "I hope someday you will pay for what you did to her." So, I said, "I might not be able to prove it," I said. But I said, "You know, maybe somebody could someday." And then so, he didn't say nothing, and I just walked out and, you know, it was really kind of scary.

MS. PAULA FOLEY: Um hum.

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: So I went back and I, I thought I would feel a lot better, but I didn't. I didn't really feel much better, because I thought -- you think you would do some things and you'll feel a lot better, but you didn't. So I went back to the cops and I told them, and they were really, like, being my friends, by this point. Because every day I was there for, like, a week, and you know, they felt really bad. And so they knew that the statements that I took and the statements that they took before in the beginning were, like, totally
MS. PAULA FOLEY: Um hum.

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: -- like, really, really different. And they didn't match up at all. And then, um, so, they, they said you might have a better chance if you -- they told me I could file, like, for wrongful death because there should have been, um, you know, railings going down, but there wasn't. And I said, you know, "That's not really what I want, and that's not gonna really bring, you, any feeling of justice from that."

So I didn't, and I didn't pursue that there. And so, um, by this time, um, my sister was -- and she was just having the baby and, um, she was, um, nine months, and, um, it was in December --

MS. DEBBIE BODKIN: Still 2002? Is this 2002?

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: Yeah. And, um, or no. No, yeah. End of November, that's right. And, um, she had my, my niece [Niece], so, um, it was after that that she started doing drugs. She really, really couldn't cope with, um, the loss of my mother and stuff, like, I mean it hit all of us, like, it really, really hit her hard, like, she couldn't, she couldn't cope with it at all.

And she turned to drugs and she started using, and, um, so then I was, you know, so I went back. I
Jolene Googoo
(Mother & Mellissa Marshall)

...was back and forth trying to help her take care of the kids and stuff. And then, um, the kids, they got, um, taken away and, yeah. They got taken away from family services. And then, so, in order to get them back, I mean, um, she went to rehab and all this stuff, and then, um, she went to stay at the, um, treatment center in the reserve. And I would stay there with her. She stayed there about -- I have it was, like, 11 months that she stayed there, and I stayed there with her most of the time.

And then she got pregnant with her, her, um, her fourth son, [Nephew 2], she had him. And then she had him there and then, um, she was doing good, and then, so, they let us out and, but she was still on conditions not to see, um, [Mellissa’s Husband], because he wasn't participating in the drug tests --

MS. PAULA FOLEY: Yes.

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: -- and the conditions were no contact with him, and, um, um, drug tests for herself.

So we moved in to Port Hawkesbury, about half an hour off the reserve. We moved into a house there, and we took care of the kids and stuff, and that was, like, probably, like, a really happy time in my life, I’d say. It was good times there, and, um, I don't know how long -- I would say we lived there for quite a while, and, um, it was, I think, Canada Day weekend and, um, we went to -- oh no. We went to court and then they, the judge said that the case was closed so we were, you know --

MS. DEBBIE BODKIN: This is your mom's case or to do with the --

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: Oh no.

MS. DEBBIE BODKIN: -- kids?

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: Mellissa's. Because my mom's case was, it never got re-opened.

MS. DEBBIE BODKIN: Okay.

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: And, um, it wasn't, no.

MS. DEBBIE BODKIN: So this was the family court case?

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: Um hum. So we were really happy about that. And so, but nobody told us that, um, like, the conditions still stuck.

MS. PAULA FOLEY: Oh, okay.

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: -- until, um, a couple of weeks after, until, like, the paperwork was final. And, like, you, so, we went home and we were so happy, and we were celebrating and stuff.

And then that weekend, I went home, I went home for Canada Day weekend. And, um, so I was drinking and stuff and I lost my cellphone, and then, um, I guess Mellissa was texting me and it was raining that night and my, um, my cousins ended up finding it. And they hair-dried it and they turned it back on and they read it and then it said, it was texts from my sisters, and it said, "Jolene, don't come back today because, um, I let [Mellissa’s Husband] visit the kids for a couple of hours." She's like, "Don't worry, we're not back together." She's just, like, "The kids just really wanted to see him, so I let, let, I'm letting him see them for a couple of hours."

And then, so, um, my aunt went to the grocery store to get a roast or something, and she took it to my sister's knowing that [Mellissa’s Husband] was there, right? And I didn't know even know none of this was happening. And then, so, um, she walked in and she seen him sitting on the couch, and then so she left the roast or the ham, right over there, and she went and she, she called, um, children's services right away. And, like, I think not even 45 minutes later, um, they showed up with the cops and they apprehended the kids (inaudible) [on the spot] and stuff.

So like, so he left and the kids, you know, were gone, and, um, her youngest son was eight months old - I remember - at that time, and, um, she was so devastated. We were both devastated. I felt like I lost my own kids, like, it really, it was so much hard work, for, you know, and I thought we were, I thought we are done with all that. And it just happened all over again. So it was really, really hard.

And then, so she started, um, doing drugs again after that. So -- and then, and then she got back together with [Mellissa’s Husband] after that. And then, um, my family ended up getting, like, custody, well, of the kids. They were taking care of the kids, and, um, they told, they said that, you know, "If you say with [Mellissa’s Husband], you'll never get your kids back and stuff." And they got all lawyered up, and I guess [Uncle 1] was paying my aunt’s, her husband was paying for lawyers to, um, keep those kids away from her.

And then, so, meanwhile, like, she was going back and forth to court and then I went with her, and then, so, she thought by marrying [Mellissa’s Husband] they would stop, but it made them -- they're really stubborn, too. And it made them even more, too. And they kept the kids, even, you know, more after that, and then they started threatening her with, like, adoption, and then said they were going to adopt her kids and stuff and -- so she was pregnant with [Nephew 1], her fifth kid, and, um, so she, she was afraid to have her in the hospital, but she ended up having her at, um, [Mellissa’s Husband]'s cousin's
- I think - in the bathroom, she delivered her. And, um, she went to the, it was a snowstorm and stuff. She went to the hospital and she was, like, um, premature, and so she was there for a little bit and I didn't even get a chance to go to the hospital and I met up with her. And I was, like, "What are you doing out here?" And she was like,
"Oh," she said, "The nurses said I could get a few things and, you know, since I'm going to be at the hospital for a while, they said that they could, that they'd watch [Nephew 1] and, um, while I get shampoo and all the stuff that I need." And so she was, like, really happy and in a good mood, and I seen her and I told her I'd come visit her later that day, and then, um, when she went back there, there, there was, like, four cop cars outside and they wouldn't let her back in. So she didn't get to go back in.
And then my cousin, my first cousin came and started taking care of my, my niece, and so, she was really devastated after that. Like, that, that was so devastating to her, it, it did something to her. Something that doesn't ever make somebody the same. Like, it permanently --

MS. PAULA FOLEY: Changed.

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: -- changed her, right?

And, um, like, her fear was really, really high at the time. But she kept going to court and she kept, you know, trying to fight for the kids back and, um, her husband, he was, um, he was abusive. He -- well, he started to get abusive I think after a while.

MS. DEBBIE BODKIN: Is this [Mellissa’s Husband]?

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: Um hum.

MS. DEBBIE BODKIN: What's his last name?

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: [Mellissa’s Husband].

MS. DEBBIE BODKIN: Okay. We did stay [say] that.

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: And, um, yeah.

Because, and then so, she got into a big fight with my sister, my sister, [Sister]. So, they, they weren't really speaking, but she called me up one night and she said that was, that she was coming home and she had everything, the truck all packed up and stuff. And my dad's house is the name, [one line redacted – personal information]. So I asked [Sister] if she minded - which I shouldn't done, but, I can't (inaudible) [say shit about it] now that - but, you know, [Sister] said no. She didn't want her to come back. So she didn't let her come back, and then I told Mellissa this, and I was, like, "Oh, I'm sorry, but [Sister] said that she doesn't want you here." And she was, like, "What do I do now? My God." And she was, like, "I have to take them back and unload everything," and you know. I was crying, she was crying. I was so upset and it was really emotional. I was so mad at my sister for that.
And so, she went back to him. And she stayed there, and then, like, it was around that -- and then she went to, we were going back and forth to court, so I moved to Port Hawkesbury to be closer to her. And, um, so, we would meet up there and she would stay with me and -- or I did stay in Chapel Island with her and -- but I'd get into it with her husband a lot. We would butt heads sometimes.

And, you know, so, um, she started getting suicidal. And then, um, about a year and a half, probably, before that she really did it, she got really suicidal. And probably, like, a couple of weeks out of the month, I would stay with her, and, um, until she felt better, and then I'd go back home to We'kogma'q. And during all this time, I told my sister [Sister], I said, "You know, Mellissa," I said, "She's going to kill herself, you know." And then she's, like, "Don't say that, don't ever say that." Because, um, Mellissa -- I mean, [Sister]'s son's father was in the Marines, eh? And he, um, he hung himself when, um -- it was, I think it was in 2004 he did that? [Four lines redacted pursuant to Rule 55]. And so she was, she was mad, like, at the world, but she was mad about that, too, and she was, like, "You know that (inaudible) killed himself. Why would you say that? " And I was, like, "Well, I thought you'd want to know what our sister's going to do. So I'm just telling you, that's what's going to happen." And she was, like, mad about it. "I don't ever want to hear that again." And then it's, like, "All right. Whatever."

And so, she was mad at me for going back and forth and she was, like, "Oh, I need you here, too. And why do you always have to choose her over me?" And stuff, and it's like, you know, so I went to court with Mellissa one day and, um, it was my aunt there and my cousin, um, that came up to her and told her that, um, that they, that the adoption went through and that she was going to get papers saying that two of her kids were adopted by, by --

MS. DEBBIE BODKIN: By your aunt? By the aunt?

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: Yeah. And Mellissa was crying, she was so upset. And she was, like, um, "How am I gonna get -- I don't want to only get two of my kids back, and I can't get the other two back," and all this stuff. And I was, like, "They can't, no way can they have adopted the kids. It's no way can they have done it this fast." And it's like, I said, "Don't even listen to them, they're lying and stuff."

And so right from the courthouse, we went to the post office, and she checked the, um, her mailbox, and there really was a, a brown envelope from the lawyer, and I was gonna reach for it, I was reaching for it and she shut it, and she thought it was the, um, the, you know, saying that the kids were adopted. And she broke down and she's on the ground and she was, like, crying and stuff and, um, by this time, [one line redacted – personal information], but that she didn't tell anybody. Um, I knew. And, um, but she was still suicidal. And, um, what I, I thought was really on odd because she was, um,

Catholic --

MS. PAULA FOLEY: Yes.

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: -- [Seven lines redacted pursuant to Rule 55]. I was, like, "Well, no, you're not. Don't, don't kill yourself, then," I told her. And I thought, [three lines redacted – personal information]. She was still suicidal, and that, that's when, how I really knew that, like, that she really wasn't, like, mentally, like, completely --

MS. DEBBIE BODKIN: Stable.

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: -- yeah. Like, she wasn't the person that she really, was, right?

MS. DEBBIE BODKIN [MS. PAULA FOLEY]: Because (inaudible) those were gone.

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: Yeah.

MS. PAULA FOLEY: Oh. Sorry.
MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: Well.

MS. PAULA FOLEY: Okay.

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: But, um, so, um, like, I knew she was, like, a total different person. Like the Mellissa I know and knew and all this stuff, she would never harm anybody else, [one line redacted – personal information].

And then so I was like, [one line redacted – personal information], but it didn't. And it kind of made her think she -- it, it, it made her flash back to when they took the last baby away from her from the hospital and stuff like that, and she wasn't gonna let that happen again. [One line redacted – personal information]. Like, she really thought that was a, like, a solution, a real solution. [One line redacted – personal information],

And, um, so, I'd, like, I would talk her out of it and stuff like that, and, you know, cheer her up and stuff. But it was only a matter of time before she got depressed again. And, so, yeah.

And then she was, [one line redacted – personal information], and, um, that's when -- I was home in We'kogma'q, and I didn't have my phone. I didn't have minutes for my phone. But I used to lie in bed at night. I used to think what I'm gonna say to her the next time I see her to talk her out of it? Like, what new things I would say or how -- what different things I could say to make her feel better or talk her out of doing that, so I'd be ready, when she, you know, got suicidal again.

And, um, so I was sleeping one night, and I was sleeping and I had a terrible nightmare that, um, that she died, and I was so, so devastated that it really, like, hurt, like physically hurt. And, um, but then I woke up and I was, like, oh, thank God. It was just a nightmare, right? And then somebody, but I woke up and somebody was knocking on my door. And then so I went out, I opened the door and they came in. My, my sister and two of my friends, closest friends, and I could tell just the way they were looking at me, that (inaudible) [I] knew already what happened. I was, like, "Say it." And I was, like, "Just say it," I told them. And then they said, "It's your sister. She --," and then they said, "She died this morning. She killed herself." And then I just broke down right away and I started crying and I was crying really, and I was, like, "Ow, it hurts, and it hurts," and I was, like, that -- and I was so devastated.

And then my family started showing up and, um, I was kind of mad at them. So, you know, and then there was a whole bunch of people in my house and they, nobody would leave me alone. Like, they, they thought that I was going to be suicidal just because she was, but, really, I just wanted to be away from everybody because I was so mad at everybody. And, um, so finally I just, like, freaked out and I said, I told everybody to leave, and then my sister and my dad started leaving and I was, like, "Not you guys." I was, like, "Everybody but you." And then, so, because I said, "You guys all act like you care, now," I was, like, "Where have you been the past two years?" And I'm like, you know, "You guys are a big part of the reason that she did this." And I said, "And now she's gone and [one line redacted - personal information]." They're, like, "Oh my God. [one line redacted - personal information]??" and I was, like, "You had -- Just go."

And then, um, um, so, because Mellissa, she wrote, I know, I read all the letters that she wrote to her kids and stuff before she, you know, did it. Because I knew she was going to do it. And she wrote me a letter, like, a week before, and I still have it somewhere. But, I was more of, like, um, not, like, because I knew I kept trying to get her to leave [Mellissa’s Husband] and she kept trying to say, you know, if -- well she kept -- so we did make a plan to leave, and then she backed out of that plan at the last minute and I was so, I was so mad at him, and I was so devastated. And I was, like, "If you go back to Chapel Island," I was, like, "You're, you're going to kill yourself. You're not going to come back." I was, like, "I'll never see you again," and all this stuff, and we got into a big argument and, um, so. Yeah.
Jolene Googoo

The last time we did talk, we did argue and we fought, but we made up and we hugged and stuff, but, you know when you're going to see -- you're never going to see somebody again. This, that's the feeling I had. Well, I knew that. So it's gonna happen, and there wasn't really much I could do about it.

And so, um, I thought about, um, making up with [Mellissa’s Husband] for her sake, like I did so many other times, just to be with her. So I did call, um, and, um, he said she was sleeping. So I ended up going home to We'kogma'q. And then that's when it happened. It was a few days after that.

And so, after that happened, I was really, um, lost, I would say. Pretty devastated and lost and stuff, and, um, so I start making up with my family - on my mom's side - because I wasn't as mad at them as I was my dad's side, you know, for how they treated my sister and stuff. Because [Social Agency] was my family. Like, my family was [Social Agency], like, um, workers, and stuff. They worked in -- so I think that's why I was so mad at them, too. Like, they gave her no hope at all. Like, it was no hope. It was a hopeless situation when all that they, all they had, all they had to do was say, you know, do this, this and that, and then you'll get your kids back, you know. But there was never any of that. It was, like, you're not getting your kids back. And that's, that's what did happen, you know. You should stop fighting, but she was, she didn't stop fighting. And, and they just, it was a really hopeless situation, and I was so mad at them for that because they were [Social Agency] and [Social Agency] should have given her hope. Because that's all she needed was a little bit of hope and she would have hung on. And, um, they didn't give her any hope. So she didn't hang on. And instead they did the opposite, and they're both telling about the adoption and it kind of shooked her, and I was mad about that, too.

So I went to Halifax and I was there for, um, a few months, and, um, you know, I just needed to be away from everybody, and, um, um, so I started going out with this guy, and he was, um, he worked a lot, he didn't do drugs, and he didn't drink. So that was really good. And so we didn't really see much of each other, but, you know, I stayed there, and, um, you know, I'd get to hang out with my aunts and stuff a lot. And you I kind of, like, was able to make peace with everything that happened. You know. Like, come and accept it a little bit more. Like, not be angry about it because there's, I couldn't
Statement - Public
Jolene Googoo
(Mother & Mellissa Marshall)

change nothing. So -- and not to feel so guilty. Like, I struggled feeling guilty for a long time, for a long time, but, like, I, I dealt with all those emotions, like, kind of on my own.

And, um, so yeah. So I think I was doing pretty good, and, um, I was trying to find, you know, my way, like, like, trying to find things, positive things to do. And then, um, I was hanging out with these, my friends and they had a boat and stuff, and then, so, the, um, my, like, um -- I couldn't say purpose, but, like, something like that came through them. They said, you know, "We have a boat. Why don't you ask your band if you can get the tuna license and, you know, we'll give you 50 percent of the, um, tuna license. And, um, you don't even have to do any work, you can just stay on the boat. So, I made that, like, you know, my goal.

So I started traveling back and forth from We'kogma'q to Halifax. And, um, so I was meeting with Phil Drennon (ph), the Director of Fisheries and stuff, and I told him my idea, and he thought that, he said it was a really good idea and, you know, so, we worked on that plan for a while, and, um, a couple months, and, um -- can I use the bathroom?

MS. DEBBIE BODKIN: Sure. Sure.
MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: Okay.
MS. DEBBIE BODKIN: I'll shut the equipment off for a bit.

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: Okay.

MS. DEBBIE BODKIN: You can have a stretch.

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: Oh my goodness.

MS. DEBBIE BODKIN: It five after one.

--- Whereupon the session is in recess at 1:05 p.m.

--- Upon resuming at 1:30 p.m.

MS. DEBBIE BODKIN: Okay. It is 1:30 p.m. and we've just turned the equipment on and, um, just a couple things I wanted to clarify. Number one, you are an incredible young lady, incredibly strong and brilliant and well-spoken and someone who's gone through so much and, you know, thank you for being able to share it with me. I'm honoured to be a part of here and to help you. Um, I wanted to ask, whereabouts is [Mother’s Boyfriend], now?

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: Well, um, he died.

MS. DEBBIE BODKIN: Okay.

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: So back to that, I was just gonna finish saying that.

MS. DEBBIE BODKIN: Yeah. Perfect.

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: But, um, so, let's say -- right after my sister died and I was living with my boyfriend, um, somebody in Shube - or Indian Brook - said that they were trying to get a hold of me. So, so I found out who this person was and, um, I went to Indian Brook, on -- I think it's like in a (inaudible). And then I went to the band office and did find him, and I never met him before. And, um -

(Cellphone ringing)

MS. DEBBIE BODKIN: Oh. I apologize.

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: That's okay.

(Cellphone keeps ringing)

(Cellphone keeps ringing)

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: That's okay. And, um, so he took me to the side of the band office and the band, like, he was probably about my age, maybe, maybe a year or so older, and, um, he was saying -

(Knocking at the door)

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: -- I just wanted to tell you --

MS. DEBBIE BODKIN: Oh. I'm going to get up (inaudible). Okay, sorry. Go on.

MS. JOLENE GOOGOO: So, he took me to the side of the building and said that, um, "I just wanted to let you know that, um, I heard about your sister after, I heard about your sister and stuff like that," and he said,
"And I just wanted to tell you that," he said, "I was there, um, at [Mother’s Boyfriend]'s that day that, that happened to your mother." [And he said, "I just wanted to tell you that she didn't fall, that she did get pushed." And I said, "(inaudible) said, "(inaudible) oh my God." I said, "Would you be willing to, like, testify to that in court?" And he said, "No." He said, "I don't want to because," he said, "I'm going to get killed for that and stuff." And he said, "Me and my friend were both there," and when, after [Mother’s Boyfriend] pushed her, he said that we ran away and, "We got scared and we ran away," and he said "I just wanted to tell you so that you know."

And so, and so I felt, kind of, bad for him because he was really, felt really bad about it, and I don't want to put him in that spot. So I didn't really push that to go forward any further and that. And then I heard, um, not long after that, that [Mother’s Boyfriend] had cancer and he was dying, so -- and the neighbour across the road, she heard he died of cancer before.
